

Bial

presents

#6

I HAVE PARKINSON'S NOW WHAT?

Share your Parkinson's story with us: one's life is another's inspiration

Sometimes it's big accomplishments, like the (runner-up) table tennis world championship, or the creation of an NGO to support an entire continent. Others, it's the little things, like being able to keep cooking for those we love, or simply being able to continue dancing.

Stories of life with Parkinson's that, for those who have already realized that there is life beyond the disease, may not seem much; but which can be everything, our experience tells us, for someone who has just been diagnosed and is wondering "Now what?". If you have

I have ~~Parkinson's~~ a story to tell you

Fig. 1 Human skeleton, front and back, Trousset encyclopedia, 1886 - 1891
Fig. 2 Brain - Basal Ganglia
Fig. 3 Monocycle patent, J.W. Finch, 1894
Fig. 4 Damásio Coeiro © Luis Nobre Guedes

a story to tell, a life to remember or a memory to share, we want to hear it. And tell it to anyone who wants (and needs) to hear it.

Whether as a patient, a caregiver or a spectator, help us helping those who haven't yet found out that life doesn't end with a diagnosis, and that there's a story — theirs — waiting to be lived. Who knows if one day they'll also be here to share and inspire others who, like them right now, have just received a diagnosis and are asking themselves: "Now what?". Send us your story to info@epda.eu.com and let's get in touch.

Sources:
<https://bial-keepiton.pt/sensibilizacao-dp/testemunhos-pacientes/>

www.bial-keepiton.com

KEEP ITON Empowering people with Parkinson's